

STORY OF CIRCULATION
LARGEST IN THE CITY.

Purely Business!
The columns of a newspaper represent a cash value. No publisher can afford to give advertising "cut-rate" free any more than a merchant can give his customer free gifts of goods or shoes. A newspaper is a legitimate business concern. Its columns are its stock in trade, and advertisements should be paid for, no matter in what part of the paper they appear.

The Continued Calls
UPON THE LEADER for free notices have become so burdensome that we are forced to publish the following terms:

For Notices of Suppliers.
Resolutions, favors, or other public entertainments where a fee is charged, and for ordinary notices, and for notices of engagements, etc., the LEADER will charge FIVE CENTS A LINE, and hereafter this will be the standard rate. This, however, is a concession.

Does Not Exclude
Notices of Lodge meetings or church services, which must not exceed ten lines.

Avoidance of Disputes.
Misunderstandings are unpleasant. The rate for business notices in this LEADER is 10 cents a line for the first insertion and 5 cents a line for subsequent insertions. A customer orders a five-line local insertion in the paper. "I'll let you know when to take it out," he says to the bookkeeper. But he forgets all about it. The notice runs for two months—30 times—the bill is $10.00. When he finds out, there is a "kick" and a controversy, followed probably by an act of violence. Now to obviate this trouble, no "I'll forget" notices will be accepted hereafter. Let us have a definite agreement at the outset and the termination will be pleasant all around.

All matter for publication must be handed in before 9 o'clock in the morning of each day.

HERE HERE

IF you have a favorite sporting dog, or if you are going away on a visit, please drop us a note to that effect.

Mr. Will N. Stockton was in Paris this week.

E. D. Pickett of Fern Leaf was in the city yesterday.

H. J. Underwood of Chicago was in this city yesterday.

E. F. Herndon of Shannon was in this city yesterday.

T. W. Deming of Louisville was in this city yesterday.

T. L. Pryor of Frankfort was a visitor to our city yesterday.

J. Johnson of Charleston, W. Va., was in this city yesterday.

C. B. Trigg of Mt. Olivet was a visitor to this city yesterday.

Miss Lida Clinkenbeard has been visiting in Lexington this week.

Charles Williams, a tourist of Cincinnati, was in this city yesterday.

Caroline Kennedy, a good citizen of Canaan, was in this city yesterday.

J. P. Japling and John H. Love, Sr., of Lexington were in this city yesterday.

Thomas C. Love of Evansville, Ind., was in this city yesterday.

Mr. Charles Calk returned to Danville yesterday to resume his studies at Central College.

Miss Mary Chambers has returned home after spending the holidays with friends in Portsmouth.

TOO FULL.
"Ah," said the lady to the tramp, "you've eaten of my food, and I ask it that you may be full of gratitude."
His voice showed deep emotion as he bowed his head and said:
"I can't be full of gratitude, because I'm full of pity."

MAYSVILLE WEATHER.
What We May Expect for the Next Twenty-four Hours.

THE LEADER'S WEATHER SIGNALS.
This station—FAIR.
Blue sky—BROOKS—WILL WARMER.
If black's beneath—COLDEN'T will be.
Unless black's shown—no change we see.

What the forecasts are for a period of thirty-six hours, ending at 9 o'clock to-morrow evening.

William Jett, one of Robertson's oldest citizens, died this week.

Mrs. Nancy Jane Mitchell, aged 67, died at Dover Thursday.

An effort is being made to organize a Lodge of K. P. at Dover.

The ten-day-old son of Mr. Charles B. Morford died at Mt. Olivet.

The contract has been let for a new C. and O. ferryboat at Portsmouth.

Rev. E. B. Calks expects to be able to fill his pulpit tomorrow morning.

Mr. S. H. Dayton died near Mt. Olivet Thursday and was buried yesterday.

During 1894, 1,384 houses were built in Louisville at an expense of $2,000,000.

Mr. E. D. Schwaibach and Miss Lona Schatzman married at Georgetown, O.

The County Court has granted a renewal certificate to Henry W. Ray, Pharmacist.

P. E. Cross at Dover was awarded $25 for having the best kept depot on the C. and O. line.

Judge-elect Paynter will reach Frankfort today, and take his place on the Bench Monday.

Mitchell, Finch & Co.'s Bank has deposits amounting to over $80,000 and a surplus fund of $6,000.

Mr. and Mrs. Sam Ireland, and Mrs. Ireland's mother, have moved from Ashland to Washington City.

James N. Kehoe has been appointed Guardian of Carrie, George and Elmer Frey, with M. F. Kehoe surety.

In the County Court Major Thomas J. Chenoweth has been granted a renewal of his certificate as Pharmacist.

C. L. Tannian of Vanceburg got a violent kick on the leg from a horse a few days ago, and he is laid up for repairs.

All physicians are required to report to the County Court, by the 10th of January, all births and deaths occurring in their practice.

William D. Cochran, having been elected Clerk of the County Court, withdraws as a member of the law firm of Cochran & Sons.

It is ketching—Now Brutus Junius Clay, son of General Cassius M., is to wed Mrs. Morrell, a wealthy young widow of Nicholasville.

The liquor license granted to Martin Wall by the County Court has been transferred from his former place on Third street to 312 East Fourth street.

In accordance with law, Dr. J. H. Samuel has filed in the County Clerk's Office a list of births and deaths occurring in his practice for the past year showing 24 births and 7 deaths.

L. W. Calk, formerly of this vicinity, went to Postmaster at Georgetown, O.

The Bank of Mayville has individual deposits of $254,401.44, a surplus fund of $15,000, and total resources of $247,389.19.

John L. Sullivan is coming this week. He is billed for Huntington February 5th. It is to be hoped he will pass Mayville in the night.

John Fogarty, a wealthy farmer of Boyle county, died from internal injuries received by being struck in the stomach by a calf a week ago.

The citizens of Winchester and Georgetown are kicking on high insurance rates, and want local insurance companies organized to take the risks.

Desha Breckinridge is portrayed in the newspapers with a cigarette in his mouth. This explains his general dampishness.—Ashland News.

Professor C. M. Albert, Principal of the Johnson School, Lexington, has published a full apology to Mayor Henry T. Duncan for having coupled his name in a scandalous manner with that of a former lady teacher in the city schools.

There is a law of this state making it one of from $2 to $3 a day for anyone having bells attached to their horses. Evidently the fellows who passed this law never heard the merry jingle of the sleigh bells.

Pete Stevenson was arrested at Georgetown a few days ago by Special Agent E. W. Fitzgerald of the C. and O. and Detective Gaffney of the Covington police force, charged with robbing a freight car near the depot in this city.

The store of W. A. P. Luray at Dover, Stevenson was brought here and jailed. Yesterday he was taken to Dover and given a hearing before Squire Egan, and was held in $400 for his appearance at the February term of the Mason Circuit Court. He furnished bail and was released.

ELEGANT ENTERTAINMENT.
A German in Honor of Miss McDermott of Cincinnati.

COLE'S

Mr. and Mrs. George L. Cox last evening gave a delightful entertainment in honor of their guest, Miss McDermott of Cincinnati.

The invitations were limited; but it well may be doubted if in any other city in the state can be found an equal number of ladies so beautiful as those present.

Kentucky, long celebrated as the home of hospitality and of chivalry, has nowhere within its borders more lovely women nor nobler men than those of Mayville; and it is in evidence that more than one visitor pronounced last evening's assembly a representative one.

The ladies present were—Miss McDermott, Cincinnati; Parisian gown, mouseline de soie, point lace, diamonds.

Miss Randolph, New York; light blue, Bengaline lace, diamonds.

Mrs. Watson, Cleveland; green and red silk, American beauties.

Miss Murphy, Ironton; cerise crepon.

Miss Power, Aberdeen; white India silk and tulle.

Mrs. W. D. Cochran, light blue silk, chiffon trimmings.

Miss Prater, blue silk, cream lace.

Miss Wall, blue silk.

Miss Hocker, white satin; pink roses.

Miss Harriet Johnson, white lace over cream satin.

Miss Buckley, pink and silk.

Miss Owens, white and pink silk.

Miss Higinbotham, point de esprit over white silk.

Dr. P. G. Smoot reports to the County Court that during the past year there were 5 births and 7 deaths among his patients.

Mr. James H. Overley, formerly of this county, and whose first wife was Miss Alice Beckett, daughter of the late Mr. Alex. M. Beckett of Fleming, will be married to Miss Tillie D. Adams at the Church, Madison county, on the 16th inst.

The following officers were elected by the Neptune Fire Company at their election last evening:

President—J. M. Lane.
Vice-President—W. E. Stallcup.
Treasurer—H. L. Newell.
Secretary—William Moran.
Messenger—Lan Farnell.
Chief of Hose—E. W. Fitzgerald.

The boycott of the Woman's Christian Temperance Union and the threatening warfare combined to reduce the audience that heard Colonel W. C. P. Breckinridge at Birmingham.

Two hundred persons. Mrs. Breckinridge was the only lady present. Breckinridge attributed his small audience to bad weather and hard times at Birmingham. Somebody ought to throw a brick house on the silver tongue.

W. J. Munster, expert bookkeeper of the Lexington office, has made a thorough examination of the books of E. Collector Davidson. He is there on the order of the Security Safety Vault and Trust Company, which is the executor of the late Deputy Collector W. P. Welsh.

Mr. Davidson and Mr. Welsh's friends will leave no stone unturned to get at the true evidence of the investigation and to find out exactly the amount the city has lost, if it has lost anything.

Robinson Opera Company in "The Bohemian Girl" drew the largest crowd of the season to Washington Opera-house last evening.

Every seat in the auditorium was taken and there was a goodly number in both the balcony and gallery. The sweet numbers of Balfe's beautiful opera and masterpiece were well rendered and received.

Miss Gonzalez, as "Arline," alone with her usual brilliancy and her support decidedly acquitted themselves. At the matinee this afternoon Sullivan and Gilbert's lasting success, "H. M. S. Pinafore," will be rendered and the prices have been reduced to 15 and 25 cents to all parts of the house.

Tonight the Robinsons will close their engagement with that ever popular opera, "Robert Macaire," better known to our theatergoers as "Erminie."

HONEST DEMOCRATS.
That's What These Louisville Gentlemen Are, Sure's You're Born.

The Democratic Contesting Board at Louisville, composed partly of Judge W. B. Hoke and Magistrate Camp—both winners defeated candidates—has thrown censure in the Democratic ranks.

The report that the charges of offenses in the city election were not sustained by the evidence, so the contests fell through.

There is a good deal of dissatisfaction, and some of the Democrats are preparing to raise a howl.

All but Tierney, Republican, for Sheriff, have appealed from the Board's decision.

COAL THEFT CAPTURED.
Anthony Dimmitt, Colored, Caught in the Act This Morning.

For some time past a large quantity of coal has been stolen from C. and O. cars that have been set in the L. and N. yards here for delivery.

Special Agent Fitzgerald, accompanied by Officer Purnell, at an early hour this morning, posted themselves near the depot to await the thief.

Between 4 and 5 o'clock they nabbed Anthony Dimmitt, colored, as he was leaving a car with a sack loaded with coal.

Dimmitt was lodged in Jail and will have a hearing today at 2 p.m.

MAYSVILLE NECROLOGY.
The Number of Interments in Our Cemeteries During 1894.

THE LEADER is indebted to Mr. H. H. Cox, Sexton, for a report of the interments in the Mayville Cemetery and the Mason County Cemetery for the year 1894.

Over 12 years old—
Whites, city..... 47
Whites, city..... 16
Whites, city..... 4
Whites, outside county..... 1
Colored, city..... 9
Colored, outside county..... 9
Under 12 years old—
Whites, city..... 28
Whites, outside county..... 3
Colored..... 24

Of these 24 were buried in the Mason County Cemetery and 100 in the Mayville Cemetery, and there were 79 adults and 45 children.

CHURCH COLUMN.
OLD TIME WAYS.
HOW REPUBLICANS FARED AND FOUGHT IN KENTUCKY.

Announcements For Services at the Various Churches Tomorrow.

Protracted meeting will begin at Mitchell's Chapel in the Sixth Ward tonight, January 5th. All are invited to attend.

The subject for consideration at the Y. M. C. A. Gospel Meeting for men next Sunday will be "The Abomination of Desolation Spoken of by Daniel the Prophet." Mr. Harvey Lyons will lead.

The services at the Central Presbyterian Church tomorrow will be Sunday school at 9 a. m.; preaching at 10:30 a. m.; Y. P. S. C. E. at 6 p. m. There will be no preaching at night. All will meet with the American Bible Society at the M. E. Church, South.

Church of the Disciples—Tomorrow Junior Endeavor at 9 a. m.; Sunday-school at 9:30 a. m.; preaching at 10:45 a. m. Subject—"On the Threshold of '95: Our Indebtedness to '94." Senior Endeavor at 6 p. m. There will be no night service; my physician prohibits me preaching more than once.

E. B. Calk, Pastor.
The Communion of the Lord's Supper will be administered tomorrow morning in the First Presbyterian Church at the regular hour for morning service. No service at night. Church Sabbath school at 9:15 a. m.; Mission Sabbath school in the German Church at 2:30 p. m.; Westminster Society of Christian Endeavor at 6:15 p. m.

Services at the M. E. Church, South, tomorrow as follows: Sunday school at 9:15 a. m.; morning worship at 10:30 a. m.; Prayer by Rev. D. W. Robertson, P. E., and administration of Lord's Supper; 3 p. m. Love Feast. 6 p. m. Epworth League service. Beginning at 7 p. m. the annual meeting of the Mason County Bible Society will be held. The first address will be delivered by Rev. D. D. Chapin, Rector of the Church of the Nativity. Members of the choirs of the churches of the city are requested to occupy the choir place and assist the singing. All attending the service who have copies of "Crowning Glory" are requested to bring them.

Wanted—A Counter. Apply to George E. Fink, East Second street.

Frank Sparks, Assistant Cashier of the Cincinnati Postoffice, made the fatal mistake of getting short in his accounts, and then added to the fatal course by pretending a robbery, himself becoming the robber. He is in jail.

HERE'S YOUR NEWS.
The Sort of Stuff That Some Special Correspondents Furnish.

This special, to yesterday's Cincinnati Post has a local interest:

WINCHESTER, O., Jan. 4th.—Charles Dawson, married, and living at Dunkinsville, this county, was left hand by the accidental discharge of a gun. Two years ago his right hand was blown off by a shot from a gun. He drew $200 on a policy in an accident company. He is again insured in the same company, this time for $10,000.

Mr. Dawson lost his left forearm by the recent accident; two years ago he lost only three fingers from his left hand, so he is not much worse off than he was before the last mishap. It is thought here that his accident insurance is for $10,000 instead of $100,000, and with these few exceptions The Post's account is correct.

WHISKED HIS WHISKERS.
Layser, Shelby Caneater Editor Charley Moore at Lexington.

John T. Shelby, the law partner of Colonel Breckinridge, may be little, but, like his great grandfather, Isaac Shelby, the great Indian fighter and Kentucky's first Governor, he is very handy in a fight.

He astonished the Nation, worried Judge Bradley, and came very near ousting Judge Wilson, right in the Court-house at Washington, during the famous Pollard-Breckinridge trial.

Thursday afternoon he tackled a bigger man than Wilson, in the person of Charles C. Moore, publisher of a local sheet at Lexington.

The reason he got so mad at Moore was because the latter printed an open letter in his paper addressed to Madeline Pollard, in which he asked her to go on a lecturing tour with him, he venturing the opinion that she would draw much better than Colonel Breckinridge as a lecturer.

In the course of the article Moore said that Madeline Pollard "did not lie on her back," and that she was "not a mere beauty."

This insinuation aroused Shelby, who, taking George S. Shanklin, a young lawyer, along with him for a witness, went to Moore's office.

Moore was asked if he meant to say that Shelby had lied, and if such was the case Mr. Shelby wanted to know why he made such statement.

Moore's reply was of such an evasive character that Shelby's anger boiled over, and he struck Moore over the head with his cane, breaking the latter in two.

He then tore out a big bunch of Moore's long whiskers.

Moore caught him by the arms and held him until the violence of his anger passed away, and upon being released Shelby left the office, accompanied by Shanklin.

Moore will not prosecute, but says he is sorry he did not whip Shanklin, as he feels more inclined toward him than toward Shelby.

One of Gen. Clay's Fights—His Desperate Encounter With Sam Brown in 1844 Described by a Spectator.

NEW YORK, Jan. 4.—"I was present at the political meeting at Russell's Cafe, Ky., in 1844, when Cassius M. Clay had his sanguinary fight with Sam Brown," said an old Kentuckian, now in the East.

"Fiery General Clay always declared that the encounter was provoked deliberately by friends of Robert Wickliffe, Jr., with whom he had fought a duel three years before. That duel came about owing to a speech Wickliffe had made in his campaign against Clay, who was his opponent for a seat in the Legislature. Clay challenged Wickliffe, who was one of the best shots in Kentucky, and Wickliffe accepted the challenge. They met near Louisville, and shots were exchanged without effect. Clay became further provoked when Albert Sidney Johnston, his second, refused to agree to the demand, and that ended the duel. The two principals remained bitter enemies."

"In 1844 Garrett Davis was the Whig candidate for Congress in the Louisville District. Wickliffe was the Democratic candidate. Cassius M. Clay entered the canvass for Davis, and made a practice of interrupting and contradicting Wickliffe at every meeting at which the latter spoke. Wickliffe himself never paid any attention to Clay on these occasions, and that made the hot-headed abolitionist all the more bitter. The Democratic meeting at Russell's Cafe in August, 1844, was a big one. Wickliffe was the big speaker, and Clay was present, as usual, with blood in his eye. At a certain statement in Wickliffe's speech Clay shouted:

"That is not so, and I have the documents to prove my words!"

"As he spoke, he drew a paper from his pocket. Sam Brown, a Government officer of some kind, stood near Clay, and exclaimed:

"You're a damn liar!"

"At the same time he aimed a blow at Clay with a cane. Clay had a riding whip in his hand, and struck Brown with its butt. Then, dropping the whip, he made a motion to draw a knife. Instantly he was seized by a dozen men, who attacked and pinned him down. He did drag him several feet, but he fought himself loose from them. Brown yelled:

"Clear the way! I'll meet the damn nigger later!"

"The crowd around Clay broke away at once, exposing him to Brown, who stood with a cocked pistol aimed at his adversary. Clay advanced toward him, with his terrible knife drawn. When Clay was within two paces of Brown, the latter fired. The aim was good, and the shot would have done its worst on Clay's heart, and stopped his career there and there, but the fiery Kentuckian's proverbial good luck saved him once more. The silver-mounted scabbard of his knife was in his bosom. Brown's well-directed shot had struck the scabbard, and even went no farther. The shock almost knocked Clay down, but he quickly recovered himself, and before Brown could fire again he was upon him like a panther. He slashed his keen knife across Brown's head, and before he could draw again he was seized by bystanders a second time. His arms were pinned to his sides just above his elbows, preventing him from using his knife as he would have used it. But in spite of this, the crowd continued laughing Brown's head and face. Brown all the while struggling to get at his terrible antagonist. Clay inflicted frightful wounds on Brown during the struggle. He cut out one of his eyes, and caused the loss of so many places that there was scarcely a square inch of uninjured flesh upon it. All this time friends of Brown were hammering Clay with chairs, canes, cudgels and fists, but even by the force of numbers they were unable to break down the great fighter. Clay pressed forward in the fray and made a last fierce lunge with his knife at Brown as the latter went over the fence. The knife missed him, but the blade buried itself in the board at the top of the crowd, and the crowd drew back, and remained for years an object of interest that the natives proudly pointed out to visitors at Russell's Cafe."

"After the disappearance of Brown, Clay, pushed back down among the crowd, and holding his knife, red with blood, above his head, shouted:

"I repeat it! The speaker's statement is false! And I defy anyone here to dispute me!"

"It was so necessary to say that no one disputed him. Clay was indicted for the crime of mayhem and tried, but was acquitted on the testimony of Brown himself. Clay was so taken with the manliness and straightforwardness on the witness stand that he never drew a second time. He endeavored to make him his friend, but Brown refused the offer. In the Mexican War, only a little later, the warmest friend Clay had was Captain Charles Brown, an officer under him and a son of Sam Brown's. Brown and Sam Brown, a year or so after his terrible encounter with Clay, had both legs blown off in a steamboat explosion on the Mississippi river, and lived only a few hours."

